CARDINAL PEAK CASECRACKER 3.0 RELEASE

New Features to Save Time for Investigators

July 27, 2009 - Cardinal Peak is pleased to announce version 3.0 of the CaseCracker Interview Management System to provide investigators with more tools to save time and increase conviction rates.

Investigators are increasingly working with other agencies and need to quickly and easily share recorded interviews. Cardinal Peak has expanded the exporting options in the CaseCracker Interview Management system to make sharing video clips, audio, notes, and still images simple and efficient. CaseCracker now supports exporting in more formats to more destinations. With the increased sharing capabilities, CaseCracker also includes permissions and settings to control who can share video and where that shared video may be sent. This allows law enforcement agencies to use CaseCracker features while staying within their agency's policies and workflow.

“Cardinal Peak is excited to offer our customers additional ways to share interviews recorded with the CaseCracker system,” said Howdy Pierce, Managing Partner at Cardinal Peak. “These new features are user-friendly and were designed to help our customers perform their tasks quickly, reliably, and with as little opportunity for user error as possible. Minimizing operator error is a high priority in our CaseCracker development. We utilize feedback from law enforcement agencies that have been using CaseCracker for several years along with our development experience in the law enforcement market.”

CaseCracker is available in the following configurations: CaseCracker Standard 1-room, Standard 2-room, Premium 2-room, Portable, and Rugged Portable. There is a CaseCracker solution for agencies of any size ranging from large metropolitan areas to small rural agencies.

The CaseCracker Interview Management System was designed specifically for law enforcement, and all new features are designed to enhance investigations while maintaining a user-friendly system. CaseCracker has been in use in law enforcement agencies for over four years with over 150 installations throughout the country.
